

Call for Papers: NIA-Sponsored Biomarker Network Meeting

Organizers: Eileen M. Crimmins and Teresa E. Seeman

When: Day Prior to the Population Association of America (PAA) Annual Conference, Wednesday April 25, 2018 (8:45 – 4:30).

Where: Sheraton Denver Downtown, Denver, CO

The Biomarker Network headquartered at the USC/UCLA Center on Biodemography and Population Health is soliciting abstracts for presentations at the Biomarker Network Meeting which will take place on the Wednesday before the Population Association of America (PAA) Annual Conference.

We will develop sessions on developments in international studies, methods of measurement, theoretical developments, experience in assessment of biomarkers, and substantive results. We would like to have papers on genetic and other biomarkers as well as on other methods of collection such as apps, devices, cellphones, etc. The abstract should clarify the material to be presented: the topic, the data, the methods, the results. Abstracts are limited to 300 words. The deadline for submitting abstracts is Feb. 2, 2018.

We will begin to notify of their acceptance for program participation shortly after submission. Everyone will be notified by Feb. 16.

Please send abstracts to the Biomarker Network at bionet@usc.edu.

Please feel free to email with questions and/or suggestions (bionet@usc.edu or crimmin@usc.edu). Also feel free to share this call for papers/presentations with interested colleagues.

NOTE: We will provide lunch on the meeting day.
