

GERO 499: Aging and Older Adults in Latin America Maymester Abroad in Medellín, Colombia

Dates: May 12-May 18, 2019

2 Units

Dr. Jennifer Ailshire

Information Session: 1pm on Wednesday, 2/20, in GER 125

Travel to Colombia to volunteer with a program that provides opportunities to optimize the quality of life of older adults in the area through health promotion, disease prevention, social activities, and daily assistance and rehabilitation.

This service-learning course provides students with a multifaceted perspective on the social, economic, health care, and environmental contexts experienced by older adults in Colombia, a Latin American country with a rapidly aging population.
